SENATORS CALL MORGENTHAU IN TAX ARGUMENT

Secretary and Other Treasury Officials Asked To Reply to Program's Critics.

WALLACE SUMMONED, TOO

Committee Chief Denies Plan To Revive Imposition of Processing Levies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 11—The senate finance committee decided today to call Secretary Morgenthau and treasury experts tomorrow to answer criticisms of the house bill before getting down to serious consideration of the measure.

Secretary Wallace and Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the reconstruction corporation, also will testify. Chairman Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, said the appearance of Wallace did not necessarily mean revival of the plan for imposing new processing taxes.

Sees New Loophole

Senator Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, asked to have Morgenthau appear to answer his contention that the proposed tax on undistributed profits would permit any giant corporations to operate without paying any taxes.

Harrison said Herman Oliphant, treasury general counsel, would undertake to give the administration's reply to the protests voiced in open hearings to the house bill.

The committee's decision to recall treasury experts was considered a further indication of doubts about the house bill.

At the closed session, lasting about two hours, there was little effort to debate the merits of the proposal, committee members said. Most of the discussion was about procedure.

Sees Big Firms Aided

Sen. Byrd sent a letter to Secretary Morgenthau expressing concern lest the bill give certain larger corporation "a stranglehold over their present smaller competitors."

He said 11 huge corporations could escape all taxes under the bill as now drafted, and he listed 29 others which he said might pay less than under present tax laws.

Democratic leaders intensified their efforts to beat the Frazier-Lemke bill, which calls for the issuance of up to $3,000,000,000 in new money. They predicted it would be smashed, while Rep. Lemke, Republican of North Dakota, said it would win.

The first vote was scheduled to come on the question whether the house should bring out of the rules committee a rule permitting the bill to be called up tomorrow for debate.

Some Democratic leaders thought this vote might be close, but said the final one, on the measure itself, would send it to defeat.

Must Act on Relief

The house had a formality to go through before getting to this question. It gathered to speed the $1,425,000,000 relief appropriation for next year, and send a $2,864,228,712 deficiency bill, along to the senate. The proceedings were cut and dried, for the house had indicated its decision in preliminary balloting last week.

Other Washington developments:

The census bureau issued estimates indicating that many states made gains in population between 1930 and 1935, while 11 lost. The country as a whole gained nearly 5,000,000, bringing the total to 127,521,000. The District of Columbia led all states in percentage gain, its residents totalling 594,000 in an increase of 22 per cent.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER ACCIDENT

John H. Beers, 46, of near Marion, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated following a minor automobile accident on Leader street Saturday night. He pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned in municipal court today. Sentence was reserved and probably will be pronounced tomorrow, Judge Martin said.

The accident occurred near the Leader street railroad viaduct when Beers crowded a car traveling in the opposite direction into the curb, police said. The other car, driven by Robert Hughes of 642 Lee street, was slightly damaged along the right side, police said. No one was injured in the accident.

GETS WATER RATE LETTER

Mayor Informed by Company That There'll Be No Increase of Charges Here.

SEES HOPE OF REDUCTION

Smith Thinks Statement Will Open Way for City To Negotiate Decrease.

Mayor Frederick C. Smith announced today he has received a letter from officials of the Marion Water Co. stating the company has no intention of asking city council or any other regulatory body for an increase in present rates.

The company's present rate schedule will expire in approximately 60 days from now.

Mayor Smith said he regarded the company's statement as a development that might simplify the city administration's efforts to obtain a reduction of rates.

The text of the letter follows:

"On next Tuesday, May 12, 1936, the citizens of Marion will vote upon the matter of the purchase of the property of the Marion Water Co.

"This is a matter which is the concern of the taxpayers, for they must assume the financial burden, if there is a change of ownership and the city, through its officials must undertake the duty of management.

"Therefore, we have made no effort to influence public opinion and we intend to make no statement other than that here made. We believe that in the long run a utility is not wise to attempt to continue its service against the wishes of its customers. Upon the other hand, it is the desire of the company to continue the ownership, operation, and management of the company if that be the will of its customers.

"The management of the Marion Water Co. is now in the hands of American Water Works and Electric Co., Inc., one of the oldest companies in existence engaged in the ownership and operation of water works property and if the city decided not to own and operate the property in the future, it will be the purpose of this management to give the best possible service to its customers. While the present schedule of rates does not give to the company a reasonable return upon value of its property, nevertheless the company has no intention to request the council or any other regulatory body to increase its rates.

"We hope that the general business recovery will be shared by the water company and be reflected in its earnings. We have thought it fair to make this statement to the public but before doing so we take pleasure in first handing a copy to you.

The Marion Water Co.
Geo. Whysall, superintendent.
D. M. Watt, of New York City, President."

Mayor Smith, commenting on the letter, said this morning, "I candidly feel it would be suicidal for the water company to make an attempt to raise its rates from the present figure inasmuch as the income of the company has already dropped materially as a result of its increase in rates 10 years ago.

"The fact that the water company perhaps realizes this will naturally somewhat simplify the efforts of the administration to obtain in some manner a reduction of rates."

OHIO STILL FOURTH IN POPULATION RANK

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 11—Ohio gained normally in population from 1930 to 1935, census bureau figures showed today, and kept its place as fourth in the rank of most populous states. In 1930 the state had a population of 6,646,697, and in 1935 an estimated population of 6,707,000. The national total was estimated at 127,521,000 for 1935 compared with 122,775,046 at the 1930 census.

ITALIAN ENVOY WALKS OUT OF LEAGUE PARLEY

Says Italy Cannot Negotiate in Presence of "So-Called Delegate from Ethiopia."

NOT LEAVING GENEVA

But Claims There No Longer Is an Ethiopian State To Be Represented in Council.

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.
(Copyright, 1936, Associated Press)

GENEVA, May 11—Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's envoy to Geneva, walked out of the League of Nations council session late today when the council took up the question of conquered Ethiopia.

Il Duce's representative announced that Italy could not negotiate in the presence of the "so-called delegate from Ethiopia."

His dramatic exit followed a bitter protest from Haile Selassie himself against Mussolini's annexation of the African kingdom, and Italian hints that they would bolt the league rather than discuss Ethiopia in the presence of an agent of Selassie.

However, an Italian spokesman said Aloisi merely was leaving the council on this particular occasion, and that his action did not mean the Fascist state was resigning from the league.

The baron departed with his entire delegation. One member of the delegation told The Associated Press:

"We have left because we cannot discuss this question with the Ethiopian. Moreover, as the Italo-Ethiopian question is liquidated, we do not wish to discuss the question at the council."

Selassie's agent, Wolde Mariam, has insisted upon being invited to every session of the council which discussed the Italo-Ethiopian question.

Before he strode out of the council session, Baron Aloisi told the assembled delegates:

"I have the honor to declare that the Italian delegation cannot admit of the presence at the council table of the so-called Ethiopian delegate.

"There exists, indeed, no semblance of organization of the Ethiopian state.

"The only sovereignty existing in Ethiopia is that of Italy.

"All discussion of the subject of the Italo-Ethiopian difference would, consequently, have no object.

"Therefore, I find myself obliged to refrain from participating in the discussion."

Then he got up and walked away from the horseshoe table.

The Ethiopian, Mariam, told the council that Ethiopia had been faithful to the league covenant and had broken no laws.

Ethiopia, he added, left her case entirely in the hands of the council.

The council decided upon an immediate public session.

Duce Makes Soldiers Civilians

By The Associated Press

Benito Mussolini, his Fascist empire proclaimed, moved today to make civilians out of soldiers once more.

He ordered partial demobilization of the principal classes he called to colors for Ethiopian war. Just as the League of Nations gathered for its 92nd session in an atmosphere of gathering bitterness and uncertainty.

DISPLAY MEN MEET TO FORM STATE BODY

Marion Chosen for Ohio Convention To Be Held in June.

Groundwork for a statewide organization of window display advertising men was laid here Saturday night with the meeting of a group of display men from four Ohio cities. The new organization will hold its first annual convention in Marion in June.

The organization will have in its ranks men throughout the state engaged in trimming windows with advertising display material of nationally advertised products.

Seven display men held a dinner meeting at the Ritz Grill Saturday night to form the nucleus of the state organization. Among the group were Frank F. Steinke and Frank Phillips, operators of the State Display Service in Cleveland; C. R. Morgan, president of the Creative Display Service of Columbus; E. J. Beimforde, president of the Nu-Art Display Service of Cincinnati, and George H. Pitcher, president of the Creative Display service of Toledo.

Mr. Morgan was named chairman of the coming convention. The convention, which will be a two-day meeting, has been set for the second week in June. The conclave is expected to bring between 200 and 400 display men to Marion, Mr. Morgan said. Those engaged in the business in Michigan, Indiana and Kentucky are to be invited to meet with the Ohio group and plans for a four-state organization are to be discussed, he explained.

The group forming the state organization has selected Marion as its first convention city because of its central location, members said.

TWO "FIRST LADIES" MEET AT TEA

The First Lady of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the First Lady of the Keystone State, Mrs. George H. Public Invited To Visit City Hospital Tomorrow

Open House To Be Observed in Memory of Work of Florence Nightingale.

Residents of Marion city and county and of nearby communities have been invited to visit the Marion City hospital Tuesday in observance of National Hospital day.

Visitors will be welcomed between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m. and will be taken on a tour of the hospital before they are served tea in the dining room by members of the Woman's board.

Mrs. T. E. Sonnanstine, president of the board, has named a committee composed of Mrs. Charles Elliott, chairman, Mrs. O. S. Rapp and Mrs. C. C. Roberts, to be in charge of the serving of tea.

All members of the staff will be on duty during "open house" hours.

National Hospital day has been celebrated since 1921 when 1,000 hospitals held open house. Figures of the American Hospital association show that 700,000 men, women and children are served daily in hospital beds throughout the country by a growing number of trained, efficient doctors, nurses and other health workers who are fitted for their work by the hospitals.

National Hospital day is observed on May 12 because on that day in 1820, Florence Nightingale was born. She is one of the immortals by reason of her contribution to the elevation and development of nursing, and for her work in improving hospitals.

In the year 1854 she left England for the Crimean war area, stirred by reports of the suffering and misery of the sick and wounded soldiers. There she brought mercy to more than 10,000 suffering men. To the stricken soldiers she was an angel, but to the officials who had permitted their misery she was a fury. She worked, fought, administered, and commanded and in a few short months had miraculously brought order out of chaos and substituted comfort for horror.

After the Crimean war she established nursing homes and became the mother of modern nursing. She crusaded not only for better military hospital conditions, but for better hospitals everywhere. Her name and her work have become a legend to those who devote their lives to healing the sick.

Not only is the day observed in the United States, but Canada, China, Alaska, Australia and other lands, join in the observance.

Showers Bring Relief Here As Mercury Hits 91

Hottest May 10 Recorded as Heat and Floods Sweep Country.

A light rain last night had brought some relief today from the current May heat wave, which yesterday sent the mercury to 91 degrees, the hottest May 10 ever recorded here.

Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, weather observer here, said that while Sunday was the hottest May 10 on his records one May day in 1911 the temperature reached 101 degrees.

The weatherman's predictions promise continued relief. The forecast is cloudy tonight with showers and little change in temperature Tuesday. High temperatures were reported from a number of other points in the country by The Associated Press, including 92 at Columbus and 95 at the Cleveland airport. Detroit reported an 89 while moderate weather prevailed from New York to Washington.

Yesterday's low temperature here was 66 degrees. Rainfall measured .05 of an inch. Temperatures a year ago were a high of 70 degrees and a low of 40 degrees.

Thundershowers terminated Sunday excursions for thousands of midwesterners. At Chicago the temperature dropped from a high of 83 to 61. More rain was forecast. Torrential week-end showers raised flood threats in Texas, The Associated Press reported. The downpour measured 4.45 inches at Houston and the Trinity river swelled 28 feet to a new high mark within 48 hours near Palestine, Tex. Lowlanders moved to higher ground at Robstown, Tex., after four inches of rain fell in an hour. The Neches river left its banks in the eastern part of Anderson county.

MANSFIELD FLIERS HAVE TWO MISHAPS

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., May 11—Twenty-one persons escaped injury in two airplane mishaps here Sunday. A tri-motored plane piloted by Maj. Leslie C. Molzer and carrying 18 passengers upset at the Mansfield airport after striking soft mud on a take off. The engine of a plane occupied by Elmer Parcel, pilot, and Harold Beach, student, stopped and they made a "dead-stick" landing in the back yard of the Richland County Children's home.

Two Truckloads of Apples To Be Distributed Here

Two truckloads of Winesap apples from Virginia will be distributed to Marion relief families Wednesday begining at 9 a. m. at the city barns on Owens street.

Quantities ranging from a peck to a bushel will be given in proportion to the size of the families. The apples will be sent here by the surplus commodities division of the federal relief department. Carl Campbell, distributor of surplus relief foods for Marion county, said apples will be given only to relief families that bring containers to the city barns.

COLUMBUS, O., May 11—New residential construction in southern and central Ohio gained sharply during the first four months of 1936 compared with the similar period last year on the basis of figures released today by A. L. Guckert, director of the Columbus district, federal housing administration. Gains included Zanesville $14,900 against $1,100.

For those who prefer hearing the news at home, special telephone service will be provided. All desiring information on any contest can obtain it by calling The Star's number, 2314. Extra phone operators will be on duty to handle the calls.

Precinct reports on all county and district contests will be received from the elections board office and The Associated Press wire will bring news of voting throughout the state.

Tables and chairs will be provided in the auditorium for all who wish to tabulate returns.

Nation's Political Interest Centers on Ohio Primary; Predict Big County Vote

Election Board Officials Make Last Minute Preparations for Handling Balloting Here.

SPECIAL ISSUES UP

Fifty-Seven Precincts Will Open at 6:30 Tomorrow Morning and Close 12 Hours Later.

County election officials today made last minute preparations to handle the county's primary vote Tuesday when it is estimated 14,000 city and rural voters will go to the polls.

The county's 57 voting places will be open at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday and remain open for 12 hours. Three hundred and forty-two precinct election judges and clerks will be in the precincts to distribute ballots, supervise the voting and count the ballots when the polls are closed.

Because of the long list of names on the ballots it is expected official returns will not be brought in from the precincts until possibly 10 o'clock. However, arrangements have been made by election officials to obtain telephone reports earlier in the evening from a number of precinct in order that some indication of the trend of voting may be obtained.

Four Ballots Here

In the city, voters will be handed four ballots. One will be the general primary ballot on which they will express a preference for President, nominations for state and county offices and elect party convention delegates and party committeemen. On another will be the waterworks referendum questions giving voters opportunity to affirm or reject the 1935 council's purchase of the waterworks for $1,550,000. The third will carry the city's proposed 3.2-mill tax levy for municipal operating purposes and the fourth will list the county's proposed one-mill levy for poor relief purposes.

In the rural districts, only two ballots—the regular primary ballot and the county one-mill levy—will be handed to voters excepting those in three subdivisions that are voting on special levies and in Marion township where a vote is being taken on whether liquor shall be sold within the township. The three rural districts voting on special levies are Green Camp village, two mills for two years for village operating purposes, Green Camp village school district, four mills for nine years to retire school building bonds, and Larue village school district, two mills for two years for school operating purposes.

District Men In Race

Interest of voters in Marion and nearby counties in the state campaign has been heightened by the fact that Mt. Gilead and Kenton men are among those seeking nominations for state offices.

H. Earl Griffith of Mt. Gilead is one of three candidates for the Republican nomination for secretary of state. Mr. Griffith served as postmaster at Mt. Gilead from 1928 to 1934 and in 1934 managed the successful campaign of Clarence J. Brown for the Republican nomination for governor. He directed the campaign of the Republican ticket in the general election the same year. Mr. Griffith, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university, is publisher of the Mt. Gilead Sentinel. He and Mrs. Griffith are parents of three children.

Elmer J. Carey, 66, of Kenton, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for auditor of state. He has five opponents in the primary campaign. Mr. Carey, a road building contractor, is city clerk at Kenton and from 1909 to 1913 was Hardin county auditor. He also is a former village clerk of Ada. He and Mrs. Carey are parents of one son.

Liquor Store Closes

In conformance with state law, Marion county's state liquor store and others throughout the state will be closed all day Tuesday.

County election officials again called attention today to laws governing primary voting. They emphasized parts of the law stating in part, "It shall be the duty of the witnesses and challengers and of the judges and clerks of election, and the right of any elector, whenever there is reason to doubt the legality of any vote that may be offered, to interpose a challenge. The cause of a challenge shall be: that the person challenged is not a legally qualified elector; that he has received or been promised some valuable consideration or reward for his vote; that having previously voted he was not previously affiliated with the party whose ticket he now desires. Party affiliation shall be determined by the largest number of candidates of any one party voted for by the electors at the last general election held in even numbered years." Violation of these or other election laws is punishable by a fine of imprisonment or both, officials said.

WILSON ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

Defense Attorney Beam Cites Five Grounds in Plea to Court.

JUDGE TO RULE TUESDAY

If Plea Is Rejected Court Is Expected To Sentence Youth to Penitentiary.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., May 11—Defense counsel requested today a new trial for Charles Wilson, 23, convicted slayer of the girl he planned to marry, pretty Jean Moorhead, 17.

Attorney L. H. Beam cited five grounds as a basis for the appeal from a first degree murder conviction returned by a jury with a recommendation for mercy last Friday.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Hilton said he probably would rule Tuesday on the motion for a new trial.

If he overrules the motion, he is expected to sentence the young electrician to Ohio penitentiary to serve a life term.

Wilson shot the girl to death last April 4 as she sat in an automobile with Haskell Smith, 23.

Beam said the court erred in admitting some evidence of the prosecution; in refusing to admit some testimony of the defense, and in its general charge to the jury.

He said the verdict was against the weight of evidence and that there were other errors apparent in the record.

If the motion for retrial of the case in Richland county is overruled and Wilson is sentenced, his attorneys will have 20 days in which to carry the case to the court of appeals on error proceedings, attorneys said. Wilson's attorneys have not indicated whether they will take the case to a higher court in the event their motion for new trial is overruled.

GIRL, 15, INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS

Virginia Knight of Cherry St. in Hospital After Accident East of Marion.

Virginia Knight, 15, of 362 Cherry street, suffered a fractured pelvis and minor bruises when the car in which she was riding overturned in a ditch on Route 98, just north of Five Points, five miles east of Marion, yesterday at 2 p. m.

Her condition is not regarded as serious by the attending physician. She is in the City hospital.

The accident brought to an abrupt end a day's pleasure riding in a rented car. In the sedan were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cockerell of 362 Cherry street, brother-in-law and sister of the injured girl, and her sister Esther, 12. Mr. and Mrs. Cockerell escaped uninjured and the younger girl was released from the City hospital several hours after receiving medical treatment.

Mr. Cockerell, who was driving, had rented the car for the afternoon from the Hertz Drivurself System on East Center street.

According to state highway patrolmen who investigated the accident, Mr. Cockerell lost control of the car as he turned north off Route 23-B, and onto Route 98. The car went approximately 150 feet before it overturned in the ditch along the east side of the road.

The W. C. Boyd ambulance removed the two girls to the City hospital. The car was taken to the Hertz System garage for repair of body damages.

Taft vs. Borah Encounter and Democratic Presidential Preference Tilt Attracts Politicians.

1,360,000 WILL VOTE

Roosevelt-Breckinridge Race To Have No Effect on Convention Line-up in Philadelphia.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 11—The eyes of the nation will be on Ohio tomorrow as voters of the state go to the primary polls to settle a number of questions which are expected to have a direct bearing on the outcome of the party conventions for the selection of presidential candidates.

In spite of a generally listless pre-primary campaign Ohio voters are expected to turn out in record numbers. State election officials have estimated that 1,360,000 persons will cast ballots at the primary.

Two G. O. P. Slates

Two slates of Republican delegates to the Cleveland convention, one pledged to Robert A. Taft, Ohio's "favorite son" candidate, and the other to William E. Borah, Idaho senator, and the Democratic presidential preference voting place the primary in the spotlight of the nation.

Republican voters will choose between the Taft and Borah delegates and Democratic balloting will be a test of the strength of the new deal in Ohio.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt faces in the Democratic preferential voting Col. Henry Breckinridge of New York, new deal foe and critic, but the result will be without effect on the Philadelphia convention lineup. Col. Breckinridge has entered the Ohio primary as a test of new deal strength.

Roosevelt Unopposed

A complete slate of Democratic delegate-candidates, technically committed to President Roosevelt's renomination, is unopposed since Col. Breckinridge did not contest for delegates.

Sen. Borah was the first choice and Frank E. Gannett, New York publisher, second choice of seven at-large and 28 district delegate-candidates. One of the Borah-Gannett original eight at-large candidates withdrew, their supporters in four congressional districts were ruled off the ballot on petition technicalities, and their managers did not file in the other four districts.

Opposing the Borah-Gannett slate is a complete, organization-backed ticket of eight at-large and 44 district candidates who declared for Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, son of the late President, as first choice, and Charles H. Frederickson of Coshocton, O., second choice.

Watch Gubernatorial Fight

Lack of a contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination has centered attention in tomorrow's balloting for state and district candidates on the three-cornered fight for the Democratic nomination for governor.

State Chairman Francis W. Poulson refused today to concede even a remote possibility of Gov. Martin L. Davey's failing for renomination. He predicted the governor's victory by a probable three-to-one vote over his two opponents, Rep. Stephen M. Young and Charles H. Hubbell, both of Cleveland.

So confident of the governor's vote getting ability was Poulson, that he conceded Young, his chief opponent, possibility of carrying only Huron county, Young's former home. He predicted the governor's vote would run as high as a hundred-to-one over Young, in Columbiana county.

Attorney General John W. Bricker is unopposed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy

STOCKS RECEDE IN LATE TRADE

Losses of Fractions to Two Points in Majority With Volume Down.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 11 — The stock market slipped back into an irregularly lower rut today after making a half-hearted attempt to straighten up during forenoon trading Losses of minor fractions to around two points were in the majority at the close. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares, the smallest 3-hour session since July 3, 1935.

Moderately active on the downside were such issues as U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sears Roebuck, Dome Mines, McIntyre, Owens-Illinois, du Pont, J. I. Case, Deere and Santa Fe.

Issues displaying resistance included Fairbanks Co., Continental Can, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, Western Union and U. S. Smelting.

Wheat, cotton and other commodities generally leaned to the offside. Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1 1-8 cents a bushel lower, corn lost 3-8 to 5-8 of a cent and oats were unchanged to 1-4 lower. Corporation bonds were steadier. Leading gold currencies rallied in terms of the dollar but others were soft.

CHURCHES OBSERVE MOTHER'S DAY HERE

Special Programs Mark Occasion; Flowers Given as Tribute.

Mothers were the center of interest in many Marion churches yesterday as pastors and congregations joined in observing Mother's day.

The day was observed with sermons and special services at the First Church of the Brethren, and the Forest Lawn Presbyterian, First United Brethren, Second Pilgrim Holiness, Salem Evangelical and Reformed, Calvary Evangelical, Prospect Street M. E., First Reformed, Wesley M. E., Trinity Baptist, Central Christian, Park Street A. M. E., Oakland Evangelical, Emanuel Lutheran, Greenwood Evangelical, Fite Memorial Baptist, Pentecostal assembly and Emmanuel Baptist churches.

In several of the churches flowers were given the oldest and youngest mothers and the mother present with the largest family, and a few churches presented a flower to each mother present. The sermons and programs at one or both worship services centered on the theme of "Mother."

Rev. J. B. Swain was the speaker at the annual program given at 6.30 p. m. by the B. Y. P. U. of the Trinity Baptist church. Mrs. Troy McClure, a mother in the Trinity congregation, gave three appropriate readings. A program of music included a tenor solo by George Rule, a cornet selection by George Barnhart, and a short song service led by George Wingett. Mrs. George Barnhart played the piano accompaniments. Miss Mildred Duffey who arranged the program, presided. Devotionals were in charge of Walter Halderman and Bernard Brooks.

STEEL MEN TO VOTE ON TYPE OF SETUP

Decision Nears on Long Fought Issue of Craft vs. Industrial Unionization.

By The Associated Press

CANONSBURG, May 11—The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers started the third week of its convention today, ready to take "decisive action" on the question of whether it will go ahead with its organization campaign along industrial or craft union lines.

The delegates spent the weekend studying printed outlines of both proposed systems and Louis Leonard, Amalgamated secretary, said the time for a vote had arrived after two weeks of discussion.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers head and leader of the national committee on industrial organization, said the Amalgamated would receive $500,000 for its drive if it votes for industrial unions.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor is supporter of craft unions.

The opinion was general among steel union delegates that should the amalgamated vote for industrial unions, it might lead to similar campaigns among workers in the automobile, rubber, cement and other industries.

MARION MAN HURT AS CAR HITS BRIDGE

Harry Williams of Marion, escaped serious injury last night when his automobile struck a concrete bridge culvert on state route No. 23 one mile south of Upper Sandusky. Mr. Williams received a minor cut on the head and was given medical treatment in Upper Sandusky.

The right side of the automobile was badly damaged, both wheels and fenders being torn from the car. Deputy Sheriff Fred Jonas of Wyandot county, reported. The Williams car was bound for Marion about 8:45 p. m. when the accident occurred.

For temporary use a nail has been invented with one head above the other to facilitate drawing it from wood into which it is driven

EXCHANGE RAISES CALL LOAN RATE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 11—The interest rate on call loans on Stock Exchange listed collateral was raised today to 1 per cent from the ¾ of 1 per cent rate in effect since Oct. 30, 1933.

The 1 per cent rate just set was the highest since April 12, 1935. On April 13, of that year ended the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" among New York banks which had held the rate at 1 per cent for more than a year.

The rate for time loans on Stock Exchange collateral also was lifted to 1¾ per cent from 1 per cent for maturities ranging from 60 days to 6 months.

COUGHLIN SAYS HE'LL WIN HALF OF OHIO

Claims He Wants To Pick Congressmen, Not Interested in Presidency.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., May 11—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit predicted before an audience in Cleveland stadium yesterday that the National Union for Social Justice would "take half of Ohio" at Tuesday's primary election.

Fr. Coughlin named the congressional candidates in Ohio who had received the union's approval and said "the National Union has $5,000 to put up at this very minute against $1,000 that we'll take half of Ohio."

"We are not interested in presidents who do not make laws," he said in response to a question from the audience "We are interested only in the lawmakers."

"Our nation has long since been dedicated to a democratic form of government," he said. "Unfortunately, forgetting that eternal vigilance is the handmaiden of liberty, we have permitted ourselves to neglect this handmaiden while so-called representatives of the people betrayed their constituents and became representatives of the plutocrats"

The priest urged his audience to vote Tuesday, saying failure to take part in a primary enables "the political hoss and his venal job-seeking machine, a mere handful of men and women to saddle on your backs public officers that they choose for you."

FAST MOVING STAGE REVIEW ON PALACE THEATER BILL TODAY

A fast-moving stage revue, the Ritz Carleton Blondes, and an unusual western drama from the pen of Peter B Kyne comprise the entertainment bill on tap for Palace theater patrons tonight. The program opened its two-day engagement Sunday.

Standouts in the stage piece are Togo, clever Oriental juggler and wire walker, Anita Muth, songstress, and a couple of lads who dance with three feminine and very blond partners.

Togo presents several juggling features that are out of the ordinary and climaxes his act with the "slide for life" punch. In the latter Togo walks to the top of a rope stretched from the stage to the balcony and does a back slide to the stage. His turn netted a generous response from last night's audiences.

This reporter is inclined to favor Miss Muth as the number two entertainer in the revue company. She has a pleasing voice for the type of songs she offers and the personality to sell them to the audience. In addition she's an unusually attractive blond and scored nicely with the cash customers.

The hoofers worked hard to put over rather familiar routines and created the impression of being well above the run-of-mine dancers. A clever hand-balancing act, man and girl, and a comic and singer contribute much to the variety of the stage bill. Jack McBride, master-of-ceremonies and band leader, did a neat job of bringing on the acts The revue is backed by a stage band.

Peter B. Kyne's dramatic tale of sacrifice on the resert, "The Three Godfathers," features in the excellent cast Chester Morris, Lewis Stone, Walter Brennan, Sidney Toler, Roger Imhoff, Willard Robertson, Irene Hervey, Dorothy Tree and John Sheehan. Selected fillers are added to the program. —G. H. M.

Mrs. Rosalie Gruber is in charge of the music, and last night's musical service included selections by Rev. W. W. Fout and children and Theodore Bowman. MARRIED 50 YEARS, THEY MARRY AGAIN

Italian Couple Renew Vows on Anniversary Date With 7 Children Present.

By International News Service

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Fifty years ago, Mike Rizzuto, an Italian cobbler, went home from his shop at the end of a day's work in a different way. On the way, he saw Josephine Yndagna smiling in her garden.

Josephine was immediately enthroned in Mike's imagination. "She is a girl worthy of golden slippers," thought Mike.

Often after that, he was late for supper.

Soon there was talk of marriage between the two families and three months later, there was a marriage scheduled in the Rizzuto and Yndagna families.

There was a marriage and three months later. Mike said to his bride: "Wife, tomorrow we go to America. I hear they need good cobblers There seems to be an abundance of them here in Corraleone."

Two months later the young couple were settled in New Orleans.

Recently, after 50 years of married life, the Rizzuto's celebrated their golden anniversary by being remarried, with seven of their nine living children present at the ceremony.

"We have always been happy," said Mrs. Rizzuto. "There are quarrels occasionally. That is healthy. But we have been very happy."

"I am very glad I came to America," said Mr. Rizzuto. "I've been a shoemaker all my life, and I've been happy and healthy with my wife and children. What more could anyone ask?"

VEGETABLE CORRECTIVE DID TRICK

They were getting on each other's nerves. Intestinal sluggishness was really the cause—made them tired with frequent headaches, bilious spells. But that is all changed now. For they discovered, like millions of others, that nature provided the correct laxatives in plants and vegetables. Tonight try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets). How much better you feel—invigorated, refreshed. Important—you do not have to increase the dose. They contain no phenolic mineral derivatives. Only 25c—all druggists.

KENTON AWAITS RECORD VOTING

Interest High in Gubernatorial, Attorney General and Secretary of State Races.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., May 11—County and precinct election officials today were ready to count a record-breaking primary vote here tonight as interest in state, district and county contests flared.

Political observers in touch with the situation estimated that when farmers leave their pledges long enough to travel to the polls, the total vote will exceed by 1,000 the registered 7,800 expected to be counted here two years ago. At that time Republicans cast approximately 3,500 ballots and the Democrats, 4,000.

Although the gubernatorial, attorney general, lieutenant governor and secretary of state contests on the Democratic ticket are attracting their portion of interest particular stress is being laid on the candidacy of Elmer J. Carey of Kenton for auditor of state and that of Francis W. Dunn of Lima for congressman-at-large.

On the Republican ticket, in addition to the regular county contests nominable on both ballots, there will be the fight of Borah and Taft delegates for votes—with Borah having gained several hundred votes by reason of a rally in Ada recently; contests for lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer of state, attorney general, congressman-at-large, state senator and the bitter congressional fight between J. Wesley Masters of Mt. Gilead, French Crow of Marion, Grant E. Mouser Jr. of Marion and Miles H. McLaughlin of Nevada. Crow is campaigning on an anti-Townsend platform while Mouser's campaign has been waged for the favor of Townsend advocates.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Eating Habits.

Many a person suffers from indigestion, heart-burn, pain in the abdomen and failure of elimination. In most instances these symptoms will disappear if better combinations of foods are provided.

It is really too bad for us to lead such lives that it seems necessary to take medicine. It is a godsend that we have them, but the fact that they become necessary is proof that we are not eating and living exactly as we should. It would be a mistake to throw medicines out of the window; until we become much better informed than we now are they will continue to be essential to our health and comfort.

It seems to me, as I think about it, that the general public does not possess quite enough accurate knowledge of food values. If we get enough food to satisfy hunger most of us are content. It is particularly true of the men folks that a comfortable feeling beneath the belt is the chief thing in life, certainly so far as eating goes. We pay less attention than we should to the values of the things we consume.

There is no doubt that more and more women are interested in food values and anxious to learn more about them. This fact speaks well for the future welfare of the human race.

Attention to the diet is the first factor of importance in overcoming many symptoms. Indigestion, heartburn, pain in the abdomen and failure of elimination will disappear, as I have said, if the diet is properly controlled.

When it comes to eating, we can resist anything but temptation. The urge of the palate is too much for use. We flatter ourselves that we will yield "just this once." But outraged nature rebels after a while.

There are certain foods that should be eaten by everybody. The leafy vegetables and all the fruits are particularly desirable.

Apples and pears are abundant and cheap. You will do well to eat them freely. The citrus fruits, oranges and grapefruit, are excellent additions to the diet.

To promote elimination, the fatty foods—butter, cream, dressings made of oil and temperate quantities of fat meat, bacon for instance—will usually help a lot. But please do not misunderstand me: I do not say that everybody will find improved elimination following a high fat diet. On the contrary, there are occasional persons who are made worse by unusual quantities of fats. The personal element enters into the matter.

A little cautious experimentation will help to solve the individual problem. But, in general, it may be said in all truth, I am sure, that digestive and eliminative disorders are caused by wrong eating and wrong living.

Joe Voll Moves Tailoring Shop After 42 Years

In business at the same location for 42 years is the record of the Joseph Voll & Son, tailoring firm, at 139 North Main street, which has moved from its second floor rooms to the first floor of the same building.

The elder Mr. Voll, who was born in Stangenroth, Bavaria, Germany, first opened the tailoring shop in the Breen building on March 14, 1894. At that time, Mr. Voll remembers, Marion was a bustling city of some 5,000 persons. Hitching posts lined the main thoroughfares.

In the first years, Mr. Voll often worked by kerosene lamp, when some "gay young blade" of the nineties was in a particular rush for a garment. In these days, Mr. Voll says, cutaway coats were common and men were more formal in their attire. He recalls that often he pressed creases out of ready-made trousers to produce that "stove-pipe" effect.

Mr. Voll first came to America in 1888, when he left Germany to escape the three years compulsory military training which was imposed upon German citizens when they reached the age of 21. He tells of arriving in New York with only 25 cents, and taking odd jobs there until money arrived from a friend in Cincinnati.

After his trip to Cincinnati he came to Marion and was employed by J. Strelitz & Sons, a pioneer clothing and tailoring establishment. For three years he was employed by the firm before establishing the business which he now conducts.

TRUCK DRIVERS MUST CARRY CERTIFICATES

New Regulation Regarding Commercial Vehicles in Effect.

Beginning Tuesday drivers of all commercial motor vehicles, including trucks and busses, are required to carry their certificates of registration. The requirement is provided in a new state law.

The purpose of the law is to provide a means of identification and to associate the license the vehicle carried with the car or truck. State highway patrolmen here said it is probable they will stop commercial vehicles for awhile in a check to see that the new statute is being obeyed. Failure to carry the registration certificate may cost a violator, upon conviction, a fine ranging from $10 to $100.

Patrolman J. M. Kratzer, who is in charge of the local sub-station, said that while passenger automobiles are not affected by the law it is a good policy for all motorists to carry their certificates, either on their person or in the vehicle, as a means of identification.

For Digestion's sake ...smoke CAMELS

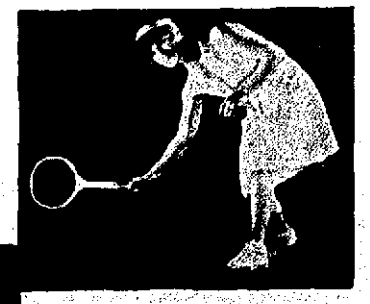
O. D. GLADWELL describes operating a pneumatic drill. "This battering ram is tough on the digestion," he says. "I just smoke Camels, and Camels set me right."

Busy Americans Find Smoking Camels a Pleasant Aid That Helps Digestion to Proceed Smoothly—Increases Alkalinity!

Many annoyances of our daily lives—rush, worry, noise, mental strain—slow down the flow of the digestive fluids so necessary to good digestion.

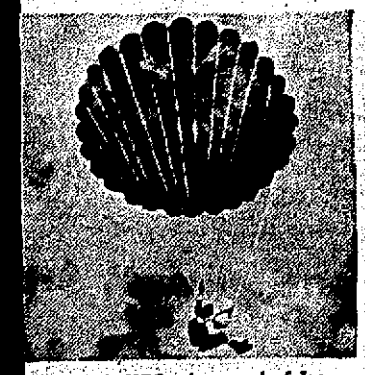
Science and common experience agree that smoking a Camel stimulates digestion, increases the flow of digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids.

From Camel's costlier tobaccos you get unequaled mildness. Smoke Camels for a comforting lift—for well-being—for digestion's sake! They set you right!



LIGHTNING SPEED of petite Mrs. Ethel Arnold (above) depends greatly on digestion. "I smoke Camels with and after meals," says Mrs. Arnold.

AT THE MAYFAIR ROOM of the Book-Cadillac Hotel in Detroit, Camels are a natural complement to perfect dining. Paul Fischer (right) says: "A glance around our tables proves that those who appreciate quality have made Camel cigarettes their first choice."



664 JUMPS—the record of Joe Crane (above). He says: "Camels set me right! It's just natural for me to turn to Camels for digestion's sake."

METHOD USED. The evidence obtained by scientists definitely establishes the fact that smoking a Camel increases the flow of the digestive fluids. The importance of this in facilitating digestion is a matter of common knowledge.

Costlier Tobaccos!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic...than any other popular brand.

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

Henry P. Fletcher

HENRY P. FLETCHER

By The Associated Press

Henry Prather Fletcher, the suave Republican national committee chairman, is an exceedingly busy man.

With one hand this former army officer and diplomat must continue to throw every available hand grenade into the Democratic dugout. With the other hand he must seek to soothe the restively ambitious within his own lines, lest rival presidential candidacies damage party chances.

After all this heavy spade-work is done, it's quite possible that Chairman Fletcher will lose his job. One of the first things a presidential nominee does is to select his own campaign manager.

Thus, the commanding Republican general of pre-convention days doesn't know himself what rank he will have after Chicago. Meanwhile, he attacks at every opportunity the man he calls "The Oracle of the Radio" — President Roosevelt.

The Stars Say--

For Tuesday, May 12

Although this may be a very lively and enterprising day, according to the stellar operations, yet there may be many difficult and annoying situations to be disposed of prior to launching important projects. There are signs of treachery, gossip and small losses, but an exciting situation in private or romantic affairs may wean away from more practical and sordid matters. This develops suddenly.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the sudden development of a romantic or adventurous situation in the private or social life, this luring from more practical considerations. Yet, there will be much progress in launching new projects, after certain treacheries, slanders or misrepresentations are guarded against. Be cautious against small losses.

A child born on this day may be energetic and progressive, with new ideas prospering. But it may be subjected to intrigue, gossip and duplicity. Its private life may hold high romance.

Notable nativity: Florence Nightingale, nurse.

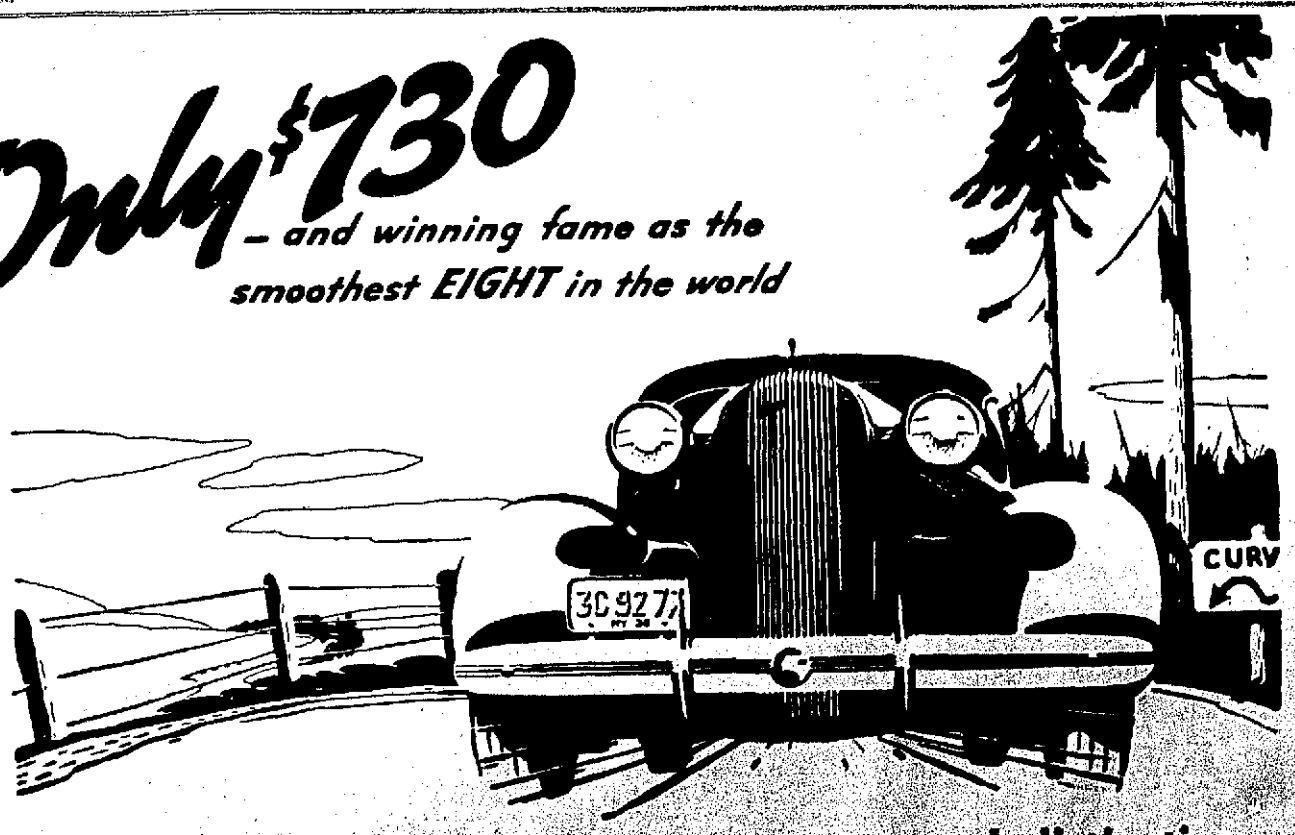
Only $730 — and winning fame as the smoothest EIGHT in the world



New peaks of performance, economy and distinction in the new Pontiac Eight

WHAT do you look for in an eight? THE GREATEST POSSIBLE SMOOTHNESS! What's behind the fame of the Pontiac Eight? It's a miracle of smoothness! Put these two facts together and you'll know what eight to buy. You'll pick a Pontiac. Because Pontiac's smoothness is built-in smoothness. Thanks to a big, short-stroke crankshaft with overlapping bearings—to the harmonic balancer, introduced by Pontiac—and to the super-precision balance of rotating parts, the Pontiac engine has no vibration point at any speed!

You'll have to go to twice as many cylinders to match that kind of performance! Just as you must climb the price scale to approach Pontiac's overall quality. Every Pontiac feature is the finest money can buy! Moreover, under official supervision, this big car averaged 22 miles per gallon! These facts will be enough for the wise-wise. If you want the greatest, smoothest eight you'll buy a Pontiac!

By Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Rupert Doria has married Hope Devine on the rebound from Elinor Fleming, who has jilted him because of his gambling. There seems to be some hope that the marriage may even succeed; Dirk is attracted to the mysterious Hope, and loyal to his brother, and a little puzzled as to his feelings toward each of them. Rupert and Hope have gone to a play, and Dirk has been there, but in another party. Now, nearing home, he sees a woman's figure standing in the shadow of the big gates.

• • •

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Night Chase

DIRK glanced at the watch on his wrist. It was exactly two o'clock. He was curious, and did not turn out of the intersecting street which ended opposite his gates but, dimming his lights, drew up to the curb, and waited. Perhaps the woman would see him. Perhaps not. At any rate, it was not in his direction she had signaled.

She appeared not to see him. A car came presently past the gates, and halted some twenty feet below. The figure emerged from the shadow and went swiftly toward it. In the light of the car-lamps Dirk saw Hope's face, and, as the car slid back, her snow-white satin gown. She stepped into the car, and was gone.

Dirk, too, was gone. He could not stop her, perhaps, but he could follow. Whatever her errand, she should not go alone. The car in which she rode—a black-and-green taxi, a pirate taxi—was flying toward the south. Dirk flew silently after it, through the empty streets.

The green taxi entered Broadway, flew through Yonkers into Manhattan. There, at Dyckman Street, it turned into Riverside Drive where all traffic signals were suspended at this hour. At Seventy-second Street it mounted the speedway, racing like mad to Fifty-seventh, and there serpentined eastward, avoiding pauses for red lights.

In the west Forties, near Sixth Avenue, it drew to the curb before a brownstone dwelling that still housed a fashionable speak-easy. For the fraction of a second it paused while a man who had been waiting in the shadow of the basement steps came out and stepped aboard.

Dirk saw him as he came, slim and dapper and quick. The door of the taxi closed behind him, and the driver turned with the traffic into Fifth avenue. There he was forced to pause, and Dirk, pausing too, drew his car abreast of the taxi.

It had been his intention, if such a situation occurred, to speak to Hope, to take her aboard his own car, and accompany her wherever she might be bound. Since the new passenger had come aboard, however, he had abandoned such an idea. He had even a feeling that he should cease following her. Her errand was no more than a rendezvous, perhaps, and he, himself, merely a spy.

He could see her now where a light from the avenue fell across her face and that of the man beside her. The man was dark, youthful, rather handsome. He was talking rapidly, inaudibly, with Hope, making quick foreign gestures with his hands. She sat staring before her, catching the cloak together at her throat, her eyes wide and thoughtful, her face pale.

• • •

The lights went green and they darted forward, flew swiftly southward, then at a red light, eastward again. They had reached Second avenue in the upper Twenties, a dismal neighborhood. Beneath the elevated tracks a traffic light blazed suddenly, permitting the green taxi by a hair's breadth to fly ahead.

Dirk would have followed, but an officer beside the red signal had an eye on him. When he was released to follow, the green taxi, having turned east again, had disappeared.

Dirk flew along First avenue, almost deserted now, and along the waterfront. There was no sign of the green taxi.

His half-formed resolve to give up following had been accomplished for him. There was nothing to do now but return home. It had been hardly decent anyhow trailing her like this, when her errand was patently a secret one.

His intentions in the beginning had been honorable enough. Something, he supposed, had called her out—something she could not tell Rupert, and he, himself, had not been there to tell. Wearing Rupert's jewels, she was not safe without a protector, a body-guard of some sort.

Now that she had chosen her protector, having come forth no doubt for the sole purpose of meeting him, let any uninvited guardian accept the fact that the fates who watch over clandestine lovers had been on her side.

Yet acceptance was not easy, he told himself, as he rode toward home. He had made himself responsible for this girl, for what she might be, for what she might do. If he had not vouched for her, pleaded and schemed and lied for her, she would not have remained in the house.

Now that he had intrenched her there, he must protect the house and Rupert. Again, the man might not be her lover, or even—as had naturally suggested itself to Dirk—her confederate in crime. She might herself be a victim, going to her death.

He put the thought from him. She had moved with a sureness, a confidence born of familiarity with the thing she did. To put out a drag-net for the taxi, to track her down, would expose and compromise her. The escapade might be innocent enough. The time might come when she would tell him all about it.

He had made a note of the taxi's number, and of the hour it disappeared. Its destination would not be difficult to trace. A Manhattan taxi-driver would certainly remember a Westchester pick-up.

Reaching home, he instructed old David, the head gardener, who slept in the lodge, not to lock the gates, and in his own room, near the stair, he waited, still dressed in his evening clothes, his door ajar, listening for Hope's return.

Waiting, he knew that it was neither the house nor Rupert he desired to protect. It was Hope. Whatever she had done, he wished to shield her from its consequences, even from discovery.

• • •

Once it occurred to him that Hope might already have returned, and he crossed the hall, knocking on her door—lightly, that Rupert in the next room might not hear. There was no sound, and he turned the knob. It yielded, and he went inside.

The room was in order for the night, a lamp burning beside the smoothly turned bed. Something else had occurred to Dirk. There was a chance that Hope had left the gems behind when she slipped out. If so, much of his anxiety as to her safety on her motives would be relieved.

The door leading to Rupert's room was closed, but the bolt was no longer drawn. Dirk moved softly to the stand beneath the long gilt-framed mirror. It was set now in orderly fashion with pearl and silver toilet accessories, all very new. He opened the single drawer below the mirror. Handkerchiefs neatly folded, veils, gloves... He turned through them without compunction. There was nothing else.

Perhaps Rupert had acquainted her with the safe in the paneled wall of this room, a small cache where their grandfather had been accustomed to keep a bottle of old Bourbon and a few sacred mementoes. Its door was invisible amid the wainscoting, and one had to know where to feel along the ridges for the hidden spring.

Dirk found and pressed it. The panel slid back, revealing the small dark aperture. Something was inside, a parcel wrapped in tissue paper. He flashed on a near-by sconce and unwrapped the package. It was no more than a brush and comb, a nail-buffer, a hat-brush. They were mounted in imitation ivory and marked with a single red initial. It looked like the set that had been spilled from Hope's bag the day before.

Dirk rewrapped them wondering. They were certainly the set he had seen on the mirror-shelf when Hope had opened the door to say she would dress and go for a ride with him. Yet they were not marked with an "H," but with an "L." Perhaps they had belonged to Senorita Leonor, the bareback-rider whose substitute Hope had been. Hope had no doubt fallen heir to them, intended to return them.

Yet why hide them? They were not of sufficient value for that.

There was nothing else in the nache. He touched the spring and the panel closed. No use looking further. If she had left the jewels, they would have been there.

At twenty minutes of five he heard what was the almost noiseless closing of the front door, and presently the faint stir of some one on the stair. He looked, and saw Hope, a shadowy figure in the dim hall, open and close her door without a sound.

She was safe, at least, and she must never know. He must have either her voluntary explanation of this night, or else the opportunity to watch her unobserved and unsuspected.

Tomorrow Dirk tries, clumsily, some detective work.

WINTER HARD ON FRUIT CROP

"Drastic Measures" Recommended by O. S. U. Specialists To Save Shrubbery.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 11.—The winter's severe cold cut sharply into Ohio's fruit crop and Ohio State university specialists advocate "drastic" measures to save shrubbery.

Frank H. Beach, horticulturist, said the winter was the worst on fruit in Ohio's history.

Victor H. Ries, floriculturist, recommended cutting to the ground of shrubbery and the use of fertilizer to save the roots as "a drastic, but the best remedy."

Beach's survey of fruit prospects showed:

Peaches: Heavy damage, especially in the southern two-thirds of the state; trees which bore heavy crops last year suffered more than young trees; still too early to determine how many trees will die. Peach crop almost gone, except in lake shore section near Painesville.

Grapes: Heavy loss in middle and southern Ohio; no appreciable injury indicated along Lake Erie district; fruiting canes injured.

Cherries: Considerable injury; fruit buds killed in southern third of state. Crop thinned by winter freezing and no prospect for sweet cherry crops.

Apples: Some injury but more favorable crop report. Prospects indicate below average crop.

Strawberries and black raspberries: Considerable of winter crop killed. Prospects no good.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lil Seek Diversion on Tennis Court.

THE UNEXPECTED sounding of Mrs. Tiver's name from Lil Rose's lips almost caused me to betray a discomposure which would have given her keen perceptions food for conjecture. It was Mrs. Tiver who had received the secret letter from Marion enclosed in one to her, with a request to deliver it to me. But beyond getting Mrs. Tiver out of the house reading the letter and locking it away, I had had no opportunity to plan how I should reply to any possible chance question such as Lillian had asked. For no sooner had I locked the letter away and left my room than I had been summoned to the kitchen to see the pseudo junkman who had brought the code message from my father's twin brother.

But from somewhere I summoned resourcefulness and intrigue enough to make a disarming and misleading answer.

"No Mrs. Tiver had no part in the junkman's advent," I said. "He must have gone directly to the guards and been passed through by them to Jim. Mrs. Tiver simply had another brainstorm about those men in the shack. She's been watching them with field glasses and she comes over and reports to me every time they watch us down here, a frequent occurence."

My Sapphire soul sent swift, silent apologies to my worthy neighbor for this libel upon her good sense. But I felt it worthwhile when Lillian laughed appreciatively at my gibe, and palpably dismissed Mrs. Tiver, her errand and her vagaries from her mind.

"A truce to all the horrors and the mysteries!" she said. "We need a diversion. Let's get out into the open spaces."

"How can we?" I countered. "You know what our dear devoted spouses said about staying in our front yard?"

"I'm not likely to forget it," she said with a wry face, and I realized, not for the first time, how impatient she is at any restraint upon her freedom, even if it be a necessary precaution against danger.

"But," she went on, "I'm not talking about anything outside the fence. I'm speaking about taking you over at tennis."

"By any chance do you mean beating me?" I asked with slinky, deliberate impertinence, for this is an old bit of foolery with us.

"If you're in your usual form, that's exactly what I mean," she retorted, although, because of a medical prohibition, she never plays a strenuous game and rarely takes a set from me. She seems thoroughly to enjoy our occasional games.

"'Pride goeth'," I quoted, "but I'm with you, or will be as soon as I've changed into tennis things.

"I'll do a bit of changing myself," she said. "And we'd better sneak out separately and meet on the court. If mother Graham sees me, she'll set me to making daisies again."

"Heaven forbid!" I laughed. "But I think she's safely asleep, and we'll have plenty of time for several sets before luncheon is on the table."

My conjecture was correct. My mother-in-law was asleep and did not waken until nearly luncheon time. Lillian and I had our tennis, followed by invigorating showers before we met Dicky's mother at luncheon in our "Adamless Eden."

Have you any idea when Richard and Harry will be back?" Mother Graham asked, and I caught back a smile at this many thousandth proof of my mother-in-law's "selfness." For though after years of saying formally, "Mr. Underwood" she has lately spoken to the big man and of him as "Harry," never as long as breath remains in her body will she speak of her only son as "Dicky," or, indeed by any other cognomen than the stately "Richard" with which he was christened.

Men Return

"No I haven't, mother," I returned, "except that they plan to get back as early as possible this afternoon. They do not intend to stay the night."

"Well! I should hope not!" my mother-in-law snorted. "Under the circumstances here, they'd be in big business staying away."

"They won't," Lillian said soothingly. "They'll be back, long before dark. You'll see."

Her prophecy was true, as well as serving its purpose of placating my mother-in-law. For it was a good two hours before dark when the Underwood car whirled up to the door and the two men came into the house.

"I suppose it's too early for dinner," Harry Underwood said with an ingratiating smile. "The sun is still up."

"You forget daylight saving," I countered indulgently. "It isn't so early by the clock. And I'll have Katie hurry it up."

But I was not wholly altruistic, although, of course, I was glad to hurry dinner for them. But I know my husband. Not a word concerning his trip to see Neal would I be able to get out of him until after dinner.

Prospect Wins County Track Meet; Pleasant Second

Four New Records Set As School Athletes Compete

New Marks Established in 220-Yard Run, 440-Yard Dash, Mile Relay and Shot Put.

BY CHARLES HOSTELLER
Marion Star Sports Writer

PROSPECT High school's cinder path artists annexed top honors in both the high school and junior high divisions of Marion county's annual scholastic track and field meet held Saturday at the Pleasant school field. Teams from the Pleasant school pushed the winning squads to close finishes and took second place in both classes.

On the dry and fast track, the county athletes assaulted brilliant past performances and hung up four new records for future stars to shoot at. Arthur Karody, Agosta High senior, finished the 220-yard run in 24.1 seconds, 1.4 seconds better than the former record made by D. Gast of Prospect in 1935. Prospect athletes pushed on to new heights as they bettered three old marks. Edward Christensen of Prospect, bettered the 440-yard dash mark by a full two seconds, finishing the gruelling run in 56.2 seconds.

Prospect's relay team, composed of Edward Christensen, Harold Thomas, Paul Roberts and Frank Hoffman, brought the time for the mile event down to 3.51.6, which is 8.1 seconds better than the former mark made by a Claridon team in 1935. Brooks Fleming of Prospect, bettered his previous shot put record, by hurling the sphere 40 ft. 10¾ in., an even two inches over the record he made last year.

Meet Called Success

Old lady luck stepped in several times to hamper the competing squads, but nevertheless, officials in charge and the coaches of the teams agreed the meet was the most successful in recent years. The Pleasant team was hampered by the loss of George Henderson, stellar dash man, who injured an ankle during practice. Prospect lost out on the 880-yard relay competition when one of the members of the squad juggled and dropped his baton as he was about to pass the leading contestant at the finish of the third lap.

Team totals of the high school events follow: Prospect, 66.75; Pleasant, 53.5; Agosta, 30.5; Claridon, 27; Caledonia, 23.75; Green Camp, 12; Morral, 3.5; Waldo, 3. Junior high totals were, Prospect, 80; Pleasant, 45; Agosta, 27; Caledonia, 16; Waldo, 2.

SHOVEL TEAM LOSES SEASON'S OPENER TO STRONG MT. VERNON 9

Marion Aggregation Drops 7-3 Decision to Lamb Glass Squad.

Unable to withstand the withering blast from the big bats of the Lamb Glass Co.'s team, the Marion steam Shovel squad suffered a 7 to 3 defeat in the season's inaugural at Lincoln Park yesterday afternoon.

The invading Mt. Vernon team opened its fire in the first inning when Lewis singled and Burkman's hit soared far over the left field fence. Circuit clouts by Parson and Harris accounted for runs in the second and third innings for Mt. Vernon, after which the Marion nine retrenched and battled vainly against heavy odds.

Approximately 150 diamond fans witnessed the season's opener which was played under ideal weather conditions. Marion's first run came in the fourth inning when Francis Robbins reached second on a short hit over the infield and scored after singles by Anderson and Kunkle. In the sixth inning the Marion squad picked up two more tallies with Robbins again leading the way.

With one out Robbins clipped a neat single to right field and reached third when Anderson duplicated his hit. Ballinger's long fly to center field scored Robbins and Anderson advanced to third. Jimmy Kunkle, a newcomer to the Marion team, smacked out a two-base hit to score Anderson. Fetter's hit to short center was picked out of the air by Blayney, Mt. Vernon second baseman, to end the brief rally.

The invading team scored again in the eighth by nicking Fetter for three hits after he had walked a previous batter. Marion's last stand came in the final inning when Drumm, batting for Baldauf, singled. McAninch registered his second hit of the game by doubling, sending Drumm to third. The last minute try failed when Marshall's fly was snagged by Mt. Vernon's moundsman, Montgomery. The box score follows:

DAYS

A LOT of people will tell you that the guy who has the toughest job in the big leagues is Frankie Frisch, boss of the temperamental St. Louis Cardinals.

The erstwhile Fordham Flash has plowed up with the passing of the years and his playing days are numbered; but it isn't Father Time who has caused those creases on the noble Frisch brow. That worried look on the Frisch pan and those gray hairs in his thinning thatch are the result of trying to manage the wildest and most eccentric gang of hooligans seen under one tent since the circus left town.

The job of managing Dizzy Dean alone is enough to make any one ready for a padded cell; but the harassed Mr. Frisch has the boisterous Pepper Martin, pugnacious Virgil Davis, Rowdy Joe Medwick, erratic Tarzan Parmelee and Daffy Dean to contend with besides the one and only Jerome H.

Now the St. Louis Gashouse Gang can be a great team when they are not too busy fighting among themselves, as was shown all too well a couple of years ago when they spanked the Tigers in the 1934 classic. However, the job of keeping peace in this big happy family of Gashouse roughnecks is really too much for any one man.

Frisch himself is a fiery sort of a cuss, and not exactly the ideal peacemaker, but perhaps the St. Louis daffydills would only listen to a hard-bitten, loud-shouting fighter like Frankie. At any rate, Mr. Frisch has our sympathy. He is one fellow who really earns his salary, no matter what it is.

Indians Defeat Tigers in 15-Inning Game; Reds Win

Cincinnati's Derringer, Spanked for Not Sliding, Redeems Self by 3-Hit Pitching.

The front office of the Cincinnati Reds apparently is convinced that it's good strategy to hand out a spanking now and then, even when a team's ace pitcher is concerned.

Paul Derringer, number one flinger of the Reds, failed to slide home in a game the Reds lost to the Giants last week, and he was suspended without pay for this sin of omission. The Reds' management announced that the failure to slide was the last straw in a succession of misdeeds; that Derringer wasn't pitching as he should and that something more drastic might be done about it. Trade talk was bandied about and Derringer began to wonder.

Again embraced in the fold, however, Derringer went to the mound against the Pirates yesterday and turned in a pitching gem. The Reds won 6-0 with Derringer allowing but three scattered hits and permitting only one Pirate to travel as far as third base, and fanned five. Babe Herman and Billy Myers took care of the offense. Herman had a perfect day at bat with a homer, a double and two singles. Myers also hit for the circuit, with two on.

Lefty Grove of the Boston Red Sox, hero of five successive victories, was belted from the mound as the Washington Senators downed the Yankeymen 4-0. Buck Newsom was the hero of this encounter, letting the potent pokers of Boston down with six safeties.

In other games, the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians went 15 innings before the Tigers bowed 9-7; the Boston Bees climbed from the National League cellar into sixth place by virtue of a 5-4 twelve-inning victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers; Joe Dimaggio, the much publicized rookie, hit a homer in the Yankees' 7-2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics and the Cards continued their fast pace in the van of the National circuit by defeating the Cubs 5-1 behind the hurling of Paul Dean. The New York Gaints tipped over the Phillies, 6-2, and the Chicago White Sox-St. Louis Browns game was rained out.

Grove's loss allowed the Yankees to slip into first place.

A walk, a triple and a single broke up the ball game between the Indians and Tigers. Joe Sullivan, who had relieved Elden Auker in the second had limited the Indians to two runs in 12 innings before he weakened to walk Vosmik and permit Hughes to triple. The Cards-Cubs game was halted by rain after the fifth inning.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 50¢?

THIS question is not as ridiculous as it sounds. Because that's exactly the value a motorist places on his life when he puts off buying new, safe tires. Squeezing that last thousand miles out of an unsafe tire may save you 50 cents at present prices—but suppose you had a blow-out!

The chances are better than even that you might have one. Because today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms—grows bigger and BIGGER until sooner or later—BANG! A BLOW-OUT! And think of the repair bills—doctor bills—that you may have to pay.

To protect you against these high-speed blow-outs, Goodrich Silvertown Tires are built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This exclusive invention resists heat—keeps rubber and fabric from separating—keeps blisters from forming. That high-speed blow-out doesn't get a chance to start.

Isn't it foolish economy to take chances when these life-saving Goodrich Golden Ply Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires? Put a set on your car. Come in today!

COLUMBUS RED BIRDS TRIMMED, 8 TO 3, BY MILWAUKEE BREWERS

St. Paul Wins Fifteenth Straight Victory, Nosing Toward Championship.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 11 — The St. Paul Saints, winners of more American Association championships than any other club in the circuit, apparently are determined to add another to their string.

They won their fifteenth straight game yesterday, downing the Toledo Mudhens 12 to 1 behind eight-hit pitching by Art Herring.

Kansas City and Indianapolis split their double bill, the Blues taking the first game 4-0 behind the pitching of Phil Page and John Niggeling, but being shut out by Bob Logan in the nightcap, 3-0.

Milwaukee trimmed the Columbus Red Birds 8-3 in the opener of a scheduled doubleheader but rain and darkness halted the second game in the third inning with the Brewers leading 1-0. The paid attendance was 11,303, largest in years. Consecutive doubles by Gullic, Weiland and Storti of the Brewers decided the first game and sent Pitcher Morton Cooper to the showers in the fifth. In the sixth York hit his seventh homer of the season with two mates on base.

Joe Heving, Brewer pitcher, fanned 12 Columbus batsmen and was seldom in trouble.

Minneapolis and Louisville divided their doubleheader, the Millers winning the first game 4-1 in 10 innings and losing 7-2 in the seven-inning nightcap, cut short by the 6 o'clock Sunday law.
